

FDTD Subgridding – Madison Le

Subgridding could reduce the memory usage to under 30GB, which could be done on a single computer. Subgridding purportedly allows these electrically large domains to be analyzed accurately without the need for large allocations of memory and resources.

